TO THE VOTERS OF LAFAYETTE

AND PANOLA:

FELLOW CITIZENS:—

My name having been before you for some time as a candidate for seat in the Senate at the next Session of the Legislature, and having determined to withdraw from the canvass, it is necessary that I should give some reasons for so doing; and then have you to decide as to the correctness of my course. Debts have come against me that I did not expect at the time I became a candidate; and all the time I shall have to use all the exertions I am master of, in order to save my property; and I have a good chance of making money by completing a contract of surveying that have undertaken. Another reason; there were two Democratic Candidates in the field which would have made the case some what doubtful and being very desirous to further the Democratic cause, I have withdrawn my name from the Canvass, with a full determination to support the Democratic candidate whoever he may be; and I hereby tender my thanks to my friends throughout the district for their former support and continued confidence.

Very Respectfully

Your Fellow Citizen,

JOHN RAYBURN.

TO THE VOTERS

OF THE

SENATORIAL DISTRICT

Composed of the counties of Panola and Lafayette. The undersigned deems it due to the people of this District, in withdrawing from the canvass as a candidate for the State Senate, to state that he is impelled to take this step in consequence of the many earnest solicitations of a numerous portion of his personal and political friends as well as a due regard to the best interests of our common country.

He is further induced to take this step from a full knowledge that his running through the campaign would not likely be productive of any beneficial result to his political friends and the Democratic cause; and he is confident that his private interests will be promoted by withdrawing. He feels very grateful to the good citizens of the district, who have tendered him their support, and in retiring from the field he is persuaded that his friends can have an opportunity of bestowing their suffrages upon a gentleman of the same political faith with himself, who is every way well qualified to serve them with fidelity & honor in the councils of the state, and thereby promote the best interests of our country. THOS. G. HUDSPETH.

Sept. 30th, 1839.

THE WHIG CREED.—The loco focus have only two ideas.—One is the sub-treasury, and the other isn't. [Roch. Free Press.] You have made a small mistake neighbor; isn't it a whig idea, entirely and it is almost the only one you possess. Let us call a whig upon the stand and see if this is not so.

Mr. Whig are you in favor of the sub-treasury plan?

Whig—I isn't.

Are you able to propose any plan for receiving and disbursing the public revenues?

Whig—I isn't.

But are you in favor of a national bank?

Whig—I isn't.

Have not some prominent members of the whig party once advocated the principles of the sub-treasury system, and if you disapprove of it, are you not bound to point out its evils, and substitute a better plan?

Whig—I isn't.

Are you not in favor of the measure of Mr. Van Buren's administration?

Whig—I isn't.
Is Mr. Clay your choice for president?
Whig—He isn't.
Is General Harrison?
Whig—He isn't.
Is General Scott?
Whig—He isn't.
Are you an abolitionist?
Whig—I isn't.
You must be a bright grammarian, my howl!
Whig I isn't.

Then it seems that you have no fixed principles, that you are in favor of nothing, and opposed to nothing except the administration of the general government, and the democratic principles upon which it is based. Where a national bank is in bad odour with the people, you propose to be opposed to it. You wish to dispense with an independent treasury without proposing any substitute. You oppose Mr. Van Buren's administration without knowing what you would have in its place. You don't know whether you would vote for Clay or Harrison or Scott or Anna Royal, because you have not found out which is the most available candidate. At the north you are an abolitionist; at the south you are opposed to abolition. In the southern portion of this state, you are in favor of having the state bestow millions upon the southern railroad; at the north, you are crying it down as a useless and ruinous piece of extravagance and folly. At the west, you are in favor of speedily enlarging the Erie canal, and in the east, you go for stopping it entirely. At Rochester, you are for building splendid Aqueducts; and at Mount Morris, you are for tearing them down and having none at all. In fine your political creed very much resembles that of an old granny—which is just no creed at all! And for professing such absurdities, you are justly entitled to be looked upon, as any thing short of a consummate dough face.

Whig—I isn't, I isn't, I isn't!

[ROCHESTER (N. Y.) REPUBLICAN.]

It is computed there are 10,000 persons confined in the various prisons of the States. It's a bad sign of public morals; and if the paper dollar monopoly or credit system is not in truth and sincerity abolished, these greedy legislative bodies will make it worse instead of better. Perhaps when it gets to the worst it will mend. We have casually enquired into the nature of these crimes which bring people to this penitentiary in such numbers and are satisfied that with an honest currency, and prudent legislation, there would be fewer crimes, less drunkenness, and not half the number of criminals.

TEXAS.—In an oration delivered in Charleston, (S. C.) on the 4th of July, the following glowing language was held by Col. B. F. Hunt, in relation to our young Republic. From no part of the United States can be looked for sympathy and support with more confidence than the gallant little State, of which Col. Hunt is a distinguished citizen:—

"But on this day of our Jubilee, let us not forget the first born of our Republic—those of our bones and flesh of our flesh—her germ of population transplanted from our own bosom—Texas starts in her career with every advantage which characterized the commencement of our own. An educated people—a successful war—a fertile and extended domain—she can command her destinies, and gives the cause of self-government another vote in the council of nations. And we this day hail with fraternal congratulations her bright star just emerging from the political horizon, and bid it God speed to its zenith of national renown. Although it be a single star, we view its advent to the firmament without an emotion of jealous fear or one pang of painful regret—for it is no erratic body shot mad from its place; it leaves our own glorious constellation undiminished and so many they shine on its brightness and in harmony together through all time to come."
